Handcrafted using woven cane and traditional basket making techniques, this cane coffin in a traditional shape has an off-white appearance.

Cane is very environmentally friendly due to the fact that it grows rapidly, as much a 6 metres a year. Cane grows in degraded forests and in marginal soil, in areas where other land products cannot grow, for example areas that remain flooded for long lengths of time.

Cane clings to tropical rainforest trees and so actively supports the preservation of trees in the rainforest. It can be introduced artificially in natural forests without disturbing the existing natural eco system. It provides income to some of the poorest people living in and on the fringes of the rainforests.

Please note

We do not provide the coffin with flowers – these are for illustrative purposes only.
